Dec. 14--Huron County Clerk of Courts Susan Hazel recently was presented with a commendation from the Ohio Clerk of Courts Association (OCCA) at its annual conference held in Columbus.

Hazel received the recognition for attending and participating in education seminars and monthly educational opportunities offered by the association throughout 2017. Justice Sharon Kennedy, of the Ohio Supreme Court, presented certificates of commendations.

"The monthly education seminars held by the OCCA are an important resource for keeping on top of the constantly changing laws and procedures my staff and I need to know in both our legal and auto title offices," Hazel said.

"My goal is to offer the best service possible to the residents of Huron County and these classes are an essential part of helping me and my staff to do that. I have actively served on the OCCA education committee for more than 10 years in an effort to help build a program which benefits all of our 88 counties."

The OCCA offered seminars on a wide variety of clerk of courts-related topics including: Dispute resolution, ADA compliance for websites, Ohio ethics laws, public records training by the state auditor's office, sovereign citizens by the FBI and state Highway Patrol, and automobile titling issues presented by the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The seminars are held in conjunction with the Ohio Clerk of Courts Association monthly meetings. The OCCA began in 1940 as a forum for clerks from all 88 counties to exchange ideas and compare programs and to exercise influence in legislation that affects the office.
